Dana Albany produces and fabricates large-scale sculptures, museum exhibits and interactive installations of enterprising vision. Originating from a collage of recycled materials, Albany's work reclaims and reimagines our scraps and discarded objects into a reconciliation of the detritus of human life. Albany has created and exhibited for Burning Man, the de Young Museum of Art, the Exploratorium, Chatsworth House in Derbyshire, UK, The California Academy of Sciences, San Francisco Arts Commission and SOMAR Gallery.

Community Champion

2022 - Coralee – Chatsworth, England

A mermaid sculpture composed of recycled glass and mixed-metals that was collected on site by staff and the local community. The sculpture was part of a Participatory build at Chatsworth, located in Derbyshire, England as part of the Radical Horizons Exhibit: The Art of Burning Man. Local school children were able to help in the creation of Coralee's glass scales and the mosaic pool she lays in. Glass bottles were collected, cleaned, tumbled and later fused together. The sculpture pays homage to legend and mythical tales about mermaids once said to inhabit the landlocked region of the National Peak District in Great Britain.

2013 - The Youth Educational Spacecraft Project – Healdsburg, CA

This mobile spaceship functions as an interactive classroom providing hands-on learning in the creative and technical spheres of art, science and history. Led by Albany and supported by her team, youth groups from the San Francisco's Tenderloin and Hunter's Bay areas designed and built the exterior mosaic from recycled materials. This magical time capsule of found objects has traveled since 2013 to engage the public at the Exploratorium in San Francisco, Maker Faire in San Mateo, Burning Man in Black Rock City and Fremont Street + Zappos in Las Vegas. As with many of Albany's projects, Y.E.S. has been enthusiastically supported and funded by many community partners including: Burning Man, The Crucible, Boys and Girls Club of San Francisco, The Exploratorium, Maker Faire and private donors.

2005 Daisy, The Recycled Dragon – San Francisco

Albany's penchant towards community engagement and support has resulted in Daisy, The Recycled Dragon. Daisy is a 20 foot-long Chinese New Year Dragon made from recycled materials and LEDs and she was commissioned by Recology, San Francisco. She continues to appear in Chinese New Year celebrations in San Francisco each New Year.

2004 Hearts in SF – San Francisco

Albany was one of the initial 130 artists to participate in Hearts in SF, a successful fundraising initiative of the S.F. General Hospital. Albany took broken shards of Muni bus station glass and created Mariposa Bevelaqua, a piecing together of street debris to honour a friend who lost a limb in an accident. The original Mariposa Bevelaqua was purchased and now resides in England. Two further iterations were commissioned privately and one resides in the Trans-America Building in San Francisco.

2003 Artist-In-Residence – San Francisco

Albany was selected as an Artist-in-Residence at Recology, a resource recovery company with over 100 years of collecting, sorting and re-distributing materials in California, Oregon and Washington states. As part of her residency Albany produced work while engaging with school and adult tours about the value of recycling, sparking ideas for innovative ways to reuse materials. Her resulting work Odyssey Recology was on public exhibit and became part of Recology's permanent art and education collection.
